Specific country results

Specific Country Examples

startups using new technology

Opportunity motivated startups

High level of female secondary education

Moderate level of highly educated female startups

Moderate level of opportunity startups

Moderate level SME training

Opportunity Perception

.ow score for startup skills

Low score for

Highest score for startups introducing a new product or service

High female startup activity ratio 7.8/10 (female/male)

High score for willingness

Low levels of female internet users

Highest score for female leadership

High female startup activity ratio 7.8/10 (fernale/male) legal rights 12/16

Low female internet users

Low level of highly educated female entrepreneurs startups introducing a new product (innovative)

Low level of

High growth

Highest score willingness

Highest female startup activity ratio 1:21/10 (female/male)

Opportunity Perception

High score for startup skills

High growth

Low exporting

Low level of women with bank accounts

Moderate Opportunity startups

Moderate startups entering new markets

Very low female leadership

startups using new technology

Opportunity

Source: 2014 Gender-Global Entrepreneurship and Development Index (GEDI) Research of High-Potential Women Entrepreneurs, commissioned by Dell.

Also Data from the Global Entrepreneurship Monitor (GEM); WEF's Global Gender Gap Index; The Global VC &PE Country Attractiveness Index; EIU; World Bank's Women, Business and the Law: UNDP's Gender Inequality Index.

