Security

Fortified.

The war on hacks gets an impressive new weapon.

For IT managers, the threat of network attack is a relentless concern. Individual and organized hackers — including pros backed by criminal enterprises — can strike a company's computer infrastructure at any time from anywhere, putting the business at risk.

For midsize companies without vast IT money, Dell and Juniper Networks® Network Security Appliances feature Unified Threat Management (UTM) technology for easy to manage multilayered protection. In addition to a firewall that safeguards data leakage, the UTM technology also offers deep packet inspection to minimize network vulnerability from any type of attack. Dell and Juniper Network Security Appliances are a simple, self-contained, comprehensive solution that can help keep your networks safe 24/7.
