i. Communities

a. As a global technology provider and corporate citizen, we see firsthand how a lack of access to quality education and technology can prevent people from reaching their full potential. To help communities overcome these challenges and thrive, we work to do more than just write cheques. To drive real change, we go beyond funding to apply technology, expertise, and volunteerism toward solving pressing social issues.

b. Our specific aspirations and goals focus on two inter-related aspects of our giving approach. One is to inspire more of our team members to use their passion and unique professional skills to serve their communities. The other is to connect the youth of today with a more promising tomorrow.

c. Our focus will be to:
   - Engage 75% of team members annually to provide 5 million hours of cumulative service to the communities in which we live and work
   - Apply our expertise and technology in underserved communities to help 3 million youth directly and support 10 million people indirectly to grow and thrive

d. Dell believes that access to education and technology is not a luxury, but a necessity. That is why we work directly with communities and non-profit organizations to close the learning gap and give young people the power to discover better possibilities. Beyond donating cutting-edge technology, a local Dell Ambassador works with a Youth Learning recipient organization to help support the deployment and upkeep of technology, as well as organizing local Dell team members who wish to volunteer in support of the initiative. When necessary, Dell also addresses basic needs that might hamper a child’s ability to learn, such as need for food or for security.

e. Dell focuses on two strategic areas- Youth Learning and Children’s Cancer Care.
• Youth Learning

Dell believes that education can play a vital role in breaking the cycle of poverty and inequality in underserved communities. The company’s Youth Learning initiative works to close the learning gap for thousands of young people who lack access to quality programs, education, technology and tools to learn. Partnering with innovative non-profit organizations, Dell places state-of-the-art technology into the hands of underserved youth and helps them uncover new possibilities to unleash their potential. We focus on programs that provide:

- Access: Getting Dell technology/solutions into the hands of underserved youth to serve as a catalyst for lifelong learning and job/career readiness.
- Innovation: We look for breakthrough educational programs that advance next generation learning capabilities and can be scaled.
- Learning: Opportunities to acquire, understand, and apply ICT skills. ICT skills are defined as:
  - Critical thinking and problem solving
  - Innovation and creativity
  - Communication and collaboration
  - Digital literacy

• Children’s Cancer Care

Dell has also seen the opportunity to put our technology, funding and expertise to work in the area of Children’s Cancer Care. While we support programs that address all types of cancer, we have focused much of our efforts to fight Neuroblastoma, the deadliest and most resistant form of childhood cancer. The programs we support focus on:

- Strategic IT Solutions - In kind donation of Dell solutions to care givers involved in the treatment of pediatric cancer
- Patient access to treatments - Assistance that provides patients with consistent and comfortable access to treatments
- Employee Engagement - Opportunities for team members to build relationships with each other and their communities

In addition, Dell responds to natural disasters typically where Dell employees or suppliers are located or in some cases where there is significant loss of lives and property.

• Environment

Environmental responsibility is about more that creating ecofriendly products, or individual initiatives. It is about incorporating sustainability into every aspect of what a corporation does, using our technology, and expertise to innovate on behalf of our customers, our communities and the planet. Our aspirations, and individual goals reflect our approach of considering the environment at every stage of technology's lifecycle, from design through the end of life, and then measuring the impact to inform future efforts. Together they form the interconnected components of our work to make a positive impact to the community and planet. These initiatives include:

- Reduce greenhouse gas emissions from our facility and logistics operations by 50%
- Reuse, or reduce our fresh water in water-stressed regions by 50%
- Ensure 90% of waste generated at Dell-operated buildings is diverted from landfills
- Develop and maintain sustainability initiatives in 100% of Dell operated buildings
